

Interested in the 2014 Meta-Analysis Program Package (Version 2.0)?

The cost of version 2.0 of the Windows-based meta-analysis software package is $150 (U.S.) for a personal copy (includes shipping). This license allows you to load the program on your own computers but not on those of others.

The other possibility is a site license. For an academic department, the cost of this is $350. This license allows all the faculty and graduate students to load the programs on their computers. For organizations other than academic departments in universities the price is the same. A site license requires a separate written agreement. For a personal license, the agreement is the one that you must read when loading the program package onto your computer. At this point, you indicate that you accept the agreement by clicking on the “Agree” icon.

For either type, please make the check out to me (Frank Schmidt) and mail it to my home (4699 Running Deer Woods NE, Iowa City, IA 52240). I have found through experience that the easiest way for academics and others to purchase the program package is to send me a personal check and then get reimbursed by their department, college, or university. This much faster than institutional purchase orders, which usually involve more paperwork requirements and cause delays. But if you cannot get reimbursed in this way, I will work with institutional purchase orders.

In the case of orders from outside the U.S., the simplest, most efficient procedure is to go to your bank and get a draft (check) denominated in U.S. dollars. If you need a receipt to get reimbursed, I can provide that if you ask. Because of the delay and complexity, I prefer to avoid wire transfers of payment.

Personal copy: When I receive your check I will mail the program package to you on a CD or else arrange for you to download it from the internet. You must have a code number to load the program onto your computer, and that is included when I mail the program package CD or when you download it online. Along with your check, please send me your email address, so we can contact you with any updates.

Site License: Before you send your check, we have to complete and sign the site license agreement. When you indicate you want a site license, I will email you the agreement form and a copy of a previous agreement that you can use as a guide in filling out the agreement form. Then you sign this and fax it to me (Fax number: 319-335-1956). Let me know via email when you have done this so I can check for the fax. If all is in order, I will sign it and fax a signed copy back to you or else will include your signed copy when I mail the program disk to you. I will mail you the program package CD or arrange for an internet download when I receive your check. You must have a code to load the CD onto the licensed computers, and that code is included when I mail the CD or when you download the programs from the internet. The site license explains which computers you can install the program on. Along with your check, please send me your email address, so we can contact you with any updates.

Important Note: When using the programs, your computer's language selection must be set to American English. Otherwise, certain data file retrieval operations will not work right. This is important for people outside the U.S.
